

TVA Security Services

Helping Your Company Meet the Challenges of a Changing World

Now more than ever, it's important for your company to protect itself. You'll need a reasoned, analytical approach to your security needs from a professional partner that knows how to secure your property – whether intellectual or physical, inside and out.

You'll need TVA Security Services.

Since 1986, TVA Fire & Life Safety has been helping leading companies around the globe meet the challenges presented by almost any threat. We're there from beginning to end, from consulting to installation to implementation. We have experts in security, fire protection, engineering, emergency management and business continuity planning. Our experience and vision will help you foresee and mitigate threats. We hate surprises, so we're here to help you avoid them.

SECURITY CONSULTING & ENGINEERING

Custom-built Solutions From a Comprehensive Menu

Whether the concern is a terrorist attack, theft of physical or intellectual property, violence in the workplace, IT security, executive protection or natural disaster, TVA will devise and implement a plan and that alone can make the difference. The more unattractive a company is to a threat, the less likely that threat will become real.

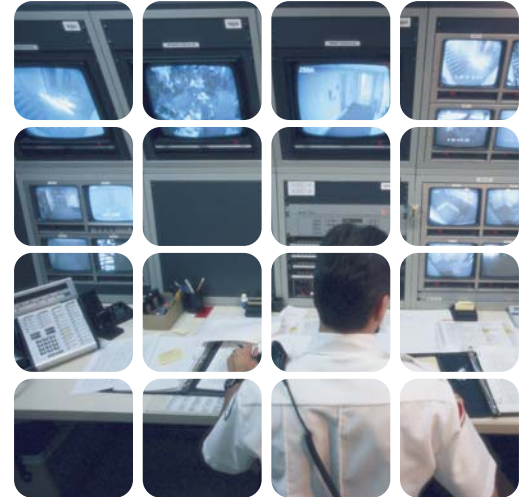

- Security/risk management consulting services
- Security system engineering and design services
- Project consulting services
- Engineering design services
- All with an eye toward practical implementation and realistic costs

Our Methodology Covers All the Bases for Your Peace of Mind

We'll review your existing security measures and business safeguards, examining the risks in your facilities, practices and people, and develop a comprehensive asset protection plan and crisis management program. Our methodology meets your unique needs, because we know every company faces different threats and has different budgets. Armed with our analysis, Risk Managers have the information they need to obtain capital for improvements they know are critical to their company's well being.

Finally: Security, Consulting and Engineering Services that Make Sense

As your security partner, we'll provide an integrated package: threat assessment, vulnerability analysis, countermeasure development, systems engineering and design, and project management. We specialize in developing advanced security solutions for new and existing facilities and we ensure they are implemented properly and economically by balancing architectural, electronic and operational considerations. Our team's integrated approach means you get the right technology, people, policies and procedures for an unobtrusive and highly effective security program – one that precisely fits your needs.

Protect Your Corporate Assets with TVA at Your Side

From pre-project planning to operational training, TVA customizes its solutions to business units or the entire enterprise. Take your pick from our services; do as much or as little as you're comfortable with, then leave the rest to our security experts.
